

Some experience in restoring and correcting mental and spiritual balance in a group of patients using the company's equipment

"IMEDIS"

The main direction of our activity is creation interiors that have a beneficial effect on human health, and about this our daily practice, you can learn, among other things, from the materials of previous Conferences.

To diagnose the premises, we use the equipment of the company "IMEDIS", which was originally intended for diagnosing a person in order to subsequently fight the identified diseases.

Therefore, it is quite logical that, explaining to our clientele the method of "interior therapy®", we talk in detail and a lot about the devices and how modern and relevant energy-informational treatment is.

Obviously, as a result of this, we received several requests, mainly from women, with a request to get them out of chronic depressive conditions associated mainly with family problems - relationships with children and husbands, in some cases - with failures at work and in personal life.

A common feature of all these situations was that we practically did not have the opportunity (with some exceptions) to work according to the method "Interior therapy®", that is, to make at least some real positive changes in the interiors of the premises where our patients live or work.

However, we had the potential of our devices, namely: "MINI-EXPERT-DT" and "IMEDIS-BRT-A", which allowed us to immediately provide primary support to the patients who applied for help and in the future to develop individualized recovery programs for each of them. and correction of mental and spiritual balance.

At the same time, it was noticed that it is the first session that has a very strong effect on the patient, and very often it happens that even he alone can initiate deep situational changes in his life.

The complex of therapeutic measures, in addition to personalized selection of frequencies and induction programs, also included energy-informational recordings from media that guarantee our patients a stable positive reaction of the "blonde" to all possible hardships in life and the allegedly hostile behavior of others, in order to overcome life difficulties with a smile and childlike spontaneity, without prejudice to their mood and well-being.

The carriers were selected strictly individually, depending on each specific situation, the information was transferred to homeopathic crumbs, which we assigned to take a special not only regularly, but also in moments of psychoemotional frustration (or, simply, bad mood). And I must say that oche often after taking crumbs in a difficult situations (for example, after an unpleasant conversation with my husband), we were informed of a clear increase in vitality, the appearance of a positive attitude, and that it is especially important to change the personal attitude to the surrounding circumstances.

In a number of cases, we also used markers, however, we quite strictly adhere to the rule of not making direct impact on third parties without their consent, therefore markers were used only for the purpose of solving common situational questions, not affecting private interpersonal relationships.

We also consider it significant the fact that gradually, in the course of communication and treatment, our patients believed in the correctness of the method and turned to the professional doctors practicing on the IMEDIS equipment in order to carry out a complete medical diagnosis and subsequent improvement of physical health. This also played an important role, since, following the expression "in a healthy body - a healthy mind", improving the patient's physical condition helped stabilize his psycho-emotional state and contributed to making the right situational decisions, which subsequently led to serious positive changes in relationships with others.

Below are some examples.

1. Patient T., 47 years old. Husband preoccupied with his own personal problems "Midlife crisis", refused to provide financial support for the family, adult children categorically did not understand the situation, took the side of their father and were in rather cold relations with T., who was forced to work constantly and hard, as a result of which there was less and less time left for the family and mental strength. We applied frequency programs and recorded several positive media. The patient changed literally "before our eyes": a new feeling of life, self-confidence, in her inner strengths appeared. Pretty quickly I found an occupation (hobby) in which I was able to realize myself as a creative person and an excellent organizer. Thanks to a new circle of acquaintances, I got the opportunity to find a good job. The position of the children has changed dramatically, now they help with the housework and are proud of the new image of their mother.

2. Patient I., 38 years old. Experienced great dissatisfaction monotonous low-paid work and partner's infidelity, unable to change either one or the other. In addition to direct frequency and energy-informational treatment with the help of IMEDIS devices, we also had the opportunity to partially use our proprietary method "interiorotherapy®" to relieve regular exacerbations of gastric ulcer attacks. Result: the interest in life was returned, a desire to look good appeared, the life situation gradually changed for the better, and our patient received several lucrative job offers, and in one of the cases it was her partner who organized the enterprise, the director of which was I.

3. Patient M., 44 years old. Despite obvious professional luck, got into a streak of life troubles of a psycho-emotional nature, with who are already tired of fighting on their own. In this case, it was not possible to carry out frequent treatment with programs, and only personalized energy-informational carriers were used, causing a stable positive reaction. Every time after taking, there was an improvement in mood and the crisis was gradually overcome.

4. Patient L., 45 years old. Against the background of a seemingly rather stable life the situation, in fact, developed a deep depression, burdened by a large number of hidden family problems and the burden of responsibility. For six months we have traditionally worked with programs and with positively charged media. Gradually, internal forces and reserves opened up, and most importantly, our patient finally paid serious attention to herself and her severely damaged health and is now being treated by doctors who also work on IMEDIS equipment, which is very pleasant for us and confirms the correctness techniques.

5. Patient E., 35 years old. I asked to arrange a personal life and attract the attention of a certain young person. After the very first session, a desired and, as it were, "accidental" meeting of the patient with the object of interest to her occurred, but, unfortunately, in the future, the relationship did not develop due to a number of objective circumstances. However, in the process of communicating with the patient, it became clear that in connection with the reorganization of the company where E. worked, she could have serious problems at work. The necessary markers were obtained, and after overcoming an almost crisis situation (i.e. exacerbation), our patient received not only an increase, but also, as a bonus, a freer visit schedule.

6. Patient K., 36 years old. Recently I asked to provide influence on the behavior of children. Already used the traditional method of creating an internal image of the "blonde". The patient's mood improved almost immediately as she regained peace of mind and self-confidence. Relationships within the family are gradually changing. Problems are solved with a sense of humor. After the very first session, the pets refused to recognize their "renewed" mistress for several days, which only confirmed the presence of changes in the patient's energy-informational field. The work continues with the regularity of sessions once a week.

It should be noted that since the end of last autumn we have made one small improvement in the general method of work and began to apply the inversion of the negative psychoemotional state of patients, which gave very interesting results, which we hope to soon process and present to your attention.

We would like to thank the team of the company "IMEDIS" and all the specialists practicing on the equipment "IMEDIS" for their kind and attentive attitude to our activities.
